

Three Word Chunks

A Poem (?)

Here's a challenge:
Express some ideas.
Three words each.
Concepts still shine!
Less clutter, though.
Requires deeper comprehension.
Almost like poetry.
Is it poetry?
I guess so.
Language constantly surprises.

I like this.
Forces absolute clarity.
Increases writing time.
Is complexity limited?
Perhaps four words?
Experimentation will answer.

Is this publishable?
Maybe; who knows?
...it's my blog.
Therefore, it's publishable.
Thanks, First Amendment!

Words are fun.
But often frustrating!
Writing takes skill.
I'm only mediocre.
Constantly improving, though!
Takes much practice.
Which takes discipline.

Why invent constraints?
Makes brain strain.
Makes me smarter!
(Theoretically, at least.)
Increases self-control, too.

When to stop?
When I'm done.
But when's that?
Now seems good.
